How Soda Water Is Made

A Visit to the Plant of the American Fork Bottling Works.

One of the busy places in American Fork is the bottling plant of the American Fork Bottling Works on the State road, where root beer and soda water for the north end of Utah county is made. It is quite interesting to watch the different processes of manufacture.

Upstairs is located the big jars of sugar and flavors, where the different syrups are mixed to their right consistency. On the next floor is the main bottling works. An electric motor operates a machine which automatically mixes the carbonic acid gas with the big tank of city water. The water as it comes from the mains is practically pure, but before it is carbonated it passes through a filter tank to take out any impurities that it may contain.

The filling and capping machine works almost automatically and is operated by electric power. The proper amount of syrup is measured and put in one bottle, while simultaneously the machine finishes filling the bottle with carbonated water and fastens the cork and tin cap on. The process is then repeated, the syrup bottle following the filled bottle as the latter is placed in the shipping box.

Another interesting process is the cleaning vat, where the used and dirty bottles are cleaned for use again. Between 400 and 500 bottles are placed in the vat and filled and covered with water, hot as they will stand. The whole is then heated with steam from a big boiler of a temperature sufficient to kill all germs. They are then, one at a time, placed over a stiff brush that goes inside and is rapidly revolved by power from the electric motor. They are then placed over a fountain, which again rinses them out, making the cleansing process complete.

In every process the idea is impressed on the visitor that the last word in sanitary efficiency has been said. The plant has a capacity of from fifty to seventy-five cases per day. The Rasmussen brand is fast becoming known and is now used by practically every dealer in the north end of Utah county.

Mines Commence On Shipments

Henry Johnson took some mining men up the canyon Wednesday and Thursday to examine the Pacific mine, with the idea of leasing it to them. They were pleased with the mineral showing that they examined, but as yet there has been no definite deal consummated.

While going up he met several teams loaded with ore from the Wadley lease on the old Miller mine.

He reports John Cleghorn as getting a good commencement on the development work that he has planned for the summer, and says that the Wild Bros. continue to extract a good tonnage from their lease on the Dutchman mine.

The snow is going fast and many are preparing for great activities there the coming summer.

Play Shut-Out Ball

The biggest success of the league was pulled off in Benjamin Thursday afternoon, when American Fork, with their invincible team, defeated their opponent champions of the south end of Utah county at Benjamin with a score of 10 to 0. This victory in favor of the American Fork team starts them out high in rank to win mostly everything for this season.

Benjamin will come back with blood in their eyes Wednesday. Nobody can afford to miss this game.

The boys have started out right—winning the first two games. Give them your hearty support. That is the kind of encouragement they need for continued success.

Great Electric Display

Local Representatives Showing Activity in Different Lines of Electric Development.

The Utah Power & Light company, in one of the big show windows on Main street, has had a most magnificent display of electrical appliances, particularly specializing on "Hot Points." It is a revelation to many to visit the window and see the many uses to which electricity can be placed and the modern comforts and conveniences which can be secured from the little electric wire.

With the cheap day current it apparently will be out a short time before most of the people will be using wires only in the furnace in the basement. The local boys are exhibiting a photo that was taken of the exhibit at night, taken by its own light.

"Hotpoint" week has been a great success. This little machine that can be used in the parlor as well as in the kitchen will cut the summer fire bill in two and can be made to do the service of a coal stove in but a trice on the time. Over one hundred of them have been placed in local homes during the past week.

Mr. E. J. Falloun, representing the "new business department" of the Utah Power & Light company, arrived in American Fork this week. His special work is the installation of private electric pumping plants. The company is fast solving the irrigation troubles throughout the state.

All through the irrigated districts and in many unirrigated districts there is an underground supply of water. With a little electric motor and a centrifugal pump this water that has seeped from the surface is again lifted from a well and made to go duty again.

In Brigham City there are scores of such wells being made to supply water for irrigating profitable orchards, the machinery being little motor and centrifugal pump attached to an electric wire. During the past year the company has connected up with a half hundred such plants in Davis county, where water is valued at $125 to $200 per acre. Some of them pump water out of wells and some from ponds too low to get the water onto the land.

The company is supplying electricity for several such plants in Utah county, and during the coming season will supply current for many others. There are many profitable sites for these small plants in this locality, and when the farmers learn how cheaply the systems can be put in their high priced canyon water will be used on the benches and the lower lands be supplied with pumped water.

POLITICS WAKING UP.

Politics is beginning to show life, though locally the boys are hardly beginning to wake up. In less than a month two of the big state conventions will have been held. The Democrats and the Bull Moose meet in Salt Lake City, both on the same day—June 11.

There has been considerable of a flirtation between the leaders of the two parties, and one of the probabilities is that they will be found harnessed together in the effort to beat the Republicans in the big political race this fall. If so, the people will be treated to the biggest political scrap that has ever taken place in the state.

Utah county has sixty-six delegates in the state convention, about one-third of which number will be allotted to the towns in the north end of Utah county.

The state conventions will nominate a supreme court justice, two congressmen and a United States senator. The talk is to give the Progressives the congressmen and the Democrats the senator. However, all this will be settled in Salt Lake City on June 11.

It can not be said that Joy's Studio tries to hold up its patrons, because there is no opposition. The lowest prices ever made on photos at this studio has been made when there was no competition. The photos at 99c per doz. every Monday are an example. No other studio in Utah has ever offered its customers so much for so little, even where competition is keen.

"Robin Hood," which was presented by the Springville High School here Thursday evening, was an entire success. Everyone was well pleased. There was some very good talent displayed, all selections being well rendered. Mark Robinson, a former American Fork citizen, was the director.

R. Y. C. CONCERT.

The concert, which promises to be a great drawing success, is being given under the auspices of the Second Ward Sunday school.
